PLAN TO MOVE INTO NEW BLOCK IN SHORT TIME

Purchase Local Stock and Good Will of Branch Furniture Store

LEASE LARGE BUILDING

Undertaking Parlors To Remain in Same Rooms for Present, Officials Say

The H. Schaffner Co., 152-158 S. Main st., today became the owner by purchase of the local stock and good will of the Hoover-Rowlands Co.

In the not far distant future the new owner will move their stock of furniture and house furnishings into the [illegible] four-story business block, Main and Church sts., which the Hoover-Rowlands Co. has occupied for the last [illegible] years.

That in brief is the story of one of the most important commercial transactions in the history of Marion.

The Hoover-Rowlands Co. has been one of Marion's most progressive business enterprises. Year by year since its establishment here nearly a score of years ago it has augmented its trading sphere and retires from the Marion business field after having built up a large and friendly patronage.

Coincidence

It is something of a coincidence that the purchase was made upon the sixtieth anniversary of the inauguration of the business of the purchasing company. Since 1866 the name of Schaffner has been associated with the handling of dependable furniture. Back in the days when the late Henry Schaffner was the representative of the name the organization manufactured as well as dealt in furniture and this was true also when the present head of the company, Frank Schaffner, was associated with his father in the business. Thus the present management knows furniture from both the manufacturing and selling angles. Later however the manufacture of furniture was abandoned.

Since the grandson, Wilfred Schaffner, has become active in the organization rugs, stoves, china, lamps and other household furnishings have been added until the stock has become one of the largest and most *complete in this sec*tion of the state and its space demands have so grown that the present location of the establishment is decidedly inadequate.

Leases Building

The acquirement of the new quarters which it takes under lease for a long term of years gives the company an

GATES OF OHIO STATE FAIR THROWN OPEN

Promises To Be "Greatest Exposition Ever;" 50,000 Daily Attendance Seen

Columbus, Aug. 30—With a blare of trumpets and the fluttering of flags the seventy-sixth annual Ohio State Fair opened here this morning promising to be all that it had been press agented, "the greatest exposition ever."

When the gates were thrown open at 7 o'clock this morning there was a small line of men and women waiting. Clouds overhead threatened rain, but there was the usual undaunted group waiting to be the first to enter the grounds. By 8:30 the skies were clearing and there was a steady inpouring of visitors. Every train coming to the city brought visitors for the fair and the predicted attendance of 50,000 daily seemed a certainty unless the weatherman objects too strenuously.

The fair was formally dedicated at 9:30 when there was a flag raising in front of the grandstand. Charles V. Truax, secretary of agriculture, and director of the fair, raised the American flag while the "all Ohio high school" band, American Legion and other concert bands playing in unison five hundred strong, played the "Star Spangled Banner."

There are George Bowman, 19, sentenced to hang for criminal attack on a girl, and Roy Martin, 24, accused of participating in the recent robbery of the Stanton, Ky., bank.

Baby Sleeps Through Auto Mishap, Parents Injured

ACCIDENTS are not feared and have no attraction for at least one child in Marion County.

Carl Seiter, eight-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Seiter of near Prospect, is today resting easy following an auto accident at the intersection of Canaan-pk and Smeltzer rd, Saturday night.

The child was asleep in his mother's arms when the accident occurred. The child's father was driving a Ford touring car north on the Smeltzer rd and collided with a Chevrolet coach being driven west on the Canaan-pk by Howard Zuspan, George-st.

The impact of the collision turned the Ford over and threw its occupants out of the car. The baby still sleeping was found about 10 feet from the car a short time later.

VIERKOETTER SWIMS STRETCH IN 12 HOURS

Clips Two Hours Off Time Made Recently by Gertrude Ederle

HAS TIDE ADVANTAGE

Small Crowd at Dover To Meet Conqueror; Goes Back to France

Dover, England, Aug. 30—Ernest Vierkoetter, German swimmer, today was added to the small group of those who have been able to swim the English Channel.

Vierkoetter landed at Dover at 2:40 o'clock this afternoon and thereby set a new record for speed in swimming the channel, breaking the record set by Gertrude Ederle.

Vierkoetter started from Cape Gris Nez at 1:35 o'clock this morning and accomplished the swim in 12 hours and 40 minutes which is the fastest time ever made in a channel swim, Gertrude Ederle having held the previous record of 14 hours and 32 minutes.

The German swimmer made his landing at Langdon Stairs, a mile and a half north of Dover.

Landing Is Surprise

Vierkoetter was accompanied on the swim by a tug. Heavy mists off the English coast during the morning made it questionable whether Vierkoetter would be able to make the shore and his landing at Langdon Stairs was something of a surprise.

The German swimmer had the advantage of the flood tides which Mrs. Corson barely missed when she made her swim on Saturday and this aided him materially in setting up a new record for time.

Record May Stand

Until Vierkoetter made his remarkable swim today the fastest time ever made by a male swimmer across the

MILLS OBTAIN BIGGEST ORDER OF INGOT IRON

Twenty Thousand Tons Bought for Water Pipes in Sao Paulo

Middletown, Aug 30—Twenty thousand tons of Armco ingot iron is for the largest single order ever recorded in the history of the American Rolling Mills here, is announced by mill officials today, the order received from the Braithwaites Ltd Construction Co of London, England.

The tons of metal are to be used in making water pipes 90 inches in diameter and these will be used in supplying water to Sao Paulo, the most rapidly growing city in South America.

A city of 700,000 souls today, Sao Paulo five years ago boasted of less than 100,000 and so rapid has been its growth that today water facilities are far from adequate.

Call In Best Brains

The best engineering brains of several countries have been consulted in designing plans for carrying the water a distance of 37 miles from a small lake in the mountains and while a portion of this will be concrete tunnels, the material made in the American Rolling Mills Company's large order will furnish more than 20 miles of pipe.

Negotiations for this order were entered into a year ago.

Officials here state that the entire order will have been turned out and delivered within a period of 18 months. The amount involved in the transaction was said to be $1,200,000.

Breaks All Records

"It is the biggest thing that has ever happened in the history of our mills," asserted Bennett Chapel, head of the [illegible] department today. "It breaks all records as no previous single order ever exceeded eight thousand tons."

Today the American Rolling Mills have branches in 12 different countries all operated under the name of Armco International and one of these is in Brazil, South America, with Mario W Teixeira and John D Gollett in charge. Work upon the order will be started immediately, Chapel says.

Where, Oh, Where, Have Our Records Gone, Officials Sing as Marion's Codified Ordinance Volume Disappears

ABOUT 10 years ago the Marion city council employed two local attorneys to codify the ordinances standing on the municipal records at that time and the work was well done and fully worth the $1,000 or more expended in the undertaking.

But today the volume containing the results of the codifiers' painstaking labors is missing and has been missing for probably two years. Whither it went nobody knows and gradually city officials are losing hope of ever solving the mystery.

The accomplishment of the two attorneys is not entirely undone, however. The index to the codified ordinances is still on file and is of considerable value whenever officials or citizens have occasion to seek information on any subject in the records. But the index by no means takes the place of the missing volume, which was regarded as being of great value in the handling of city business.

First Records Gone

To make matters worse one important ordinance book containing council's original records can not be found. It is known as Volume A and as some of the most essential city laws were inscribed on its pages the loss is regarded as serious. Whether Volume A or the ordinance code book will ever be located has become solely a matter for conjecture in which doubt prevails. There is a discouraging absence of clues right at this time.

The present city administration has established firm rules governing care of the official records which will prevent a repetition of the experience with Volume A and the ordinance code. All of the important books are held securely in a steel filing cabinet and access to them is possible only through application to either the mayor or his clerk.

This is not the first time in the city's history that valuable records have been lost. Citizens recall that 15 or 20 years ago petitions that had been filed in connection with some of the earlier street improvements disappeared and that the loss cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars, some estimates placing the total over $100,000.

These petitions were those requesting the paving of some of the city's chief thoroughfares. At that time property could not be assessed more than 25 per cent of its value to defray street improvement costs. All who signed the petitions waived that protection however and were liable to their full share of the expense.

Petition Lost

After a period of years and the payment of several of the series of semi-annual improvement assessments a property owner came before council with a demand that the remainder of the charges against him be dropped. He had paid up to 25 per cent of the value of his property and the law required him to pay no more, he declared. This was true in case he had not signed the original petition waiving his rights on that point. Whether he had signed or not could not be determined and never has been determined for the petition could not be found. As a consequence there was nothing for council to do but cancel the unpaid assessments.

The news quickly spread and eventually city council was literally swamped with calls for the same action in other cases, with the result that a huge total of accounts had to be wiped off the city's books and the loss charged up against the general tax duplicate.

But no such costly mishap will occur in the future if the system of guarding the municipal records now in force is maintained, heads of the present administration assert. No important volumes or documents are permitted to leave the city offices except in the possession of the officials themselves.

COAL TO CONTINUE AS CHIEF FUEL, IS CLAIM

Substitution of Oil Not in Sight, British Mine Head Asserts

London, Aug. 30—King Coal has many years of life before him and there is not the slightest chance of him abdicating in favor of King Oil, according to Frank Hodges, Secretary of the International Miners Federation and one of England's most prominent labor leaders.

Pointing out that the world's reserves of coal are known to exceed those of oil, Hodges asserts that coal has only had a temporary set-back in its industrial development and will shortly regain its ascendancy over oil.

"In this country and in most industrial countries," said Hodges in an interview, "coal firing will always provide the bulk of energy developed until such times as the coal reserves are economically exhausted.

To Maintain Supremacy

"The increasing use of the pulverized system of coal firing limits the expansion of the use of oil for steam raising, and coal will thus maintain its supremacy. The great advantage of the system is that low grade fuels become easily available for the production of power.

"Huge quantities of these fuels which are inseparably produced with better grade coals and which represent a substantial item of the cost of production will soon find a profitable market. Its increasing use will be an enormous economic help to the coal industry. I am not surprised therefore that it is being reported from the United States that oil firing for steam raising is being scrapped and pulverized coal firing is being installed in its place."

Electrical Pathfinders are being installed in public places all over London and persons who want to know the best and quickest way to any section of the metropolis. The device consists of a large map of London flanked on either side by a column of electric buttons, each one plainly labelled with the name of a district, and the inquirer has only to press the button indicating his destination and the shortest and most convenient route is illuminated.

—ooo—

That's What Lieut. A. J. Williams Says He Can Make in New Plane

LIEUT. A. J. WILLIAMS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 30—In 1923 Lieut. Alford J. Williams, Jr., U. S. N., drove his diminutive Curtiss racer at a speed of 266 miles an hour. For a while that record stood without serious competition. Then Capt. Bonnet of the French air service negotiated a speed of 278 miles an hour. At that figure the world's speed record now stands. But Williams is convinced he can build and fly a plane which will do 280 at least if not more. But he does not feel that he should ask the navy to build it. So he has formed a small company which is now engaged in building a special racing plane to be completed in time for the speed races on Long Island this fall. While the navy is not sponsoring the plane, it is in hearty accord with Williams' project and is offering him every aid. That speed record—the blue ribbon record of flying—must come back to America.

DEFER SPAIN'S DEMAND FOR SEAT IN COUNCIL

Geneva, Aug. 30—The committee on reorganization of the League of Nations council today deferred the question of Spain's demand for permanent seat in the council.

The committee met twice and at both sessions the Spanish delegate, Senor Palacios, demanded that Spain's claim for a permanent seat be taken up. The committee ignored these requests however and discussed temporary seats.

"Our demand is as old as the league itself," says Senor Palacios. He asked a detailed consideration of the Spanish demand and reasons for the rejection of the demand if a permanent seat is not granted.

channel was that of Tiraboschi, the Argentinian who negotiated the channel in 16 hours and 33 minutes. This record was beaten by Gertrude Ederle and again by Mrs. Clemington Corson, but the record which Vierkoetter has credited will probably stand for a considerable time.

The German swimmer, it is estimated, covered well over two miles an hour in his swim from France to Dover. He was favored by excellent weather conditions with the exception of the heavy mist.

Immediately after he had landed, Vierkoetter, who was not greeted by as large a crowd as would have gathered had his approach been heralded, boarded the boat which accompanied him on the swim and returned to Cape Gris Nez.

TRUDY HOPES TO RACE VIERKOETTER

New York, Aug. 30—Gertrude Ederle today cabled Hans Vierkoetter, German swimmer who established a new channel record by swimming across the treacherous water in 12 hours and 40 minutes, expressing the hope that he would race her from Cape Gris Nez to Dover next summer.

"Congratulations on your great swim," Trudy said in her message. "I hope that we can race across the channel next summer so that I may have an opportunity of bringing the record back to my sex and my country."

VALENTINO FUNERAL

Weeping hysterically, Miss Negri knelt beside the casket near which stood a wreath of roses sent by her and bearing the words in flowers: "My love will be eternal."

At almost the same moment Jean Acker, Valentino's first wife, arrived accompanied by her mother. Like Pola, she too, was dressed in mourning.

Miss Acker knelt beside the casket and with bowed head prayed. It was a dramatic scene, these two women, two of the three women most directly concerned in Valentino's life, praying side by side at his bier as the organ nearby gave forth soft strains.

Valentino's second wife, Natacha Rambova, is in Europe and could not get to New York in time for the funeral service. She will be represented by her half-sister, Mrs. Nora Van Horn.

Norma Talmadge, Mary Pickford and other famous stars will be in the funeral procession. Douglas Fairbanks will be one of the active pall bearers.

Police Escort Procession

The motor procession of 12 automobiles containing the mourners, pall bearers and close friends of Valentino was headed by a police escort of mounted and motorcycle men as it moved down Broadway from 66th st.

Pola Negri, weeping steadily, was in the first auto of the second section of the procession. The car was directly back of the hearse.

At the church the active pallbearers removed the casket.

Slowly, reverently they carried it into the church as the choir sang Miserere by Spoth.

Miss Negri was led to her pew still weeping. Her nerves seemed to have gone completely.

The high requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Edward F. Leonard, rector of the church, assisted by Father Congedo, a boyhood friend of Valentino's, Rev. William Donahue, chaplain of the Catholic Actors' Guild, as sub-deacon and Rev. Joseph McKenna and Rev. James O'Reilly as masters of ceremony.

Ritual Is Read

"May the angels," read Father Leonard, "lead thee into paradise; may the martyrs receive thee at thy coming and take thee to Jerusalem the holy city. May the choirs of the angels receive thee and mayest thou with the once poor Lazarus have rest everlasting."

During the impressive service solos were sung by Tarasova of the Chicago Opera Company and Demetri Onofrei of the San Carlo Opera.

Chopin's Funeral March was played on the organ by Professor Joseph Davis of St. Malachy's Church as the body was being removed from the church.

The body was then returned to the Campbell parlors to be held until the arrival on the Homeric Wednesday of Valentino's brother, Alberto Guglielmi, who is expected to decide on Hollywood, Cal., as the place of burial.

Hart, a private detective who gathered evidence in Mellett's anti-vice crusade and who has assisted in investigating the publisher's murder.

Barton was to be followed, it has been announced, by Charles L. Morris, successor of Mellett as publisher of the Canton Daily News, who is also editorial chief of the James M. Cox chain of newspapers.

Morris, who has been exceptionally active in carrying on a determined investigation into the assassination of his former friend and colleague, was expected to be before the jurors for several hours and it has been predicted that he will make startling disclosures in the form of corroborative evidence.

Today or tomorrow, according to when Morris' testimony is concluded, a key witness will be taken before the investigating body. This witness, whose name is being withheld by authorities, is a Canton businessman and the president of an association of persons claiming the same nationality here.

Story Is Expected

After admitting to authorities shortly following the murder of Mellett that he was an eye witness to certain situations immediately before and after the assassination, the man, evidently threatened, recently refused to relate his previous statement, officials said today.

Authorities expected, however, that he would tell his original story which is claimed to involve one member of the Canton police department as a plotter in the crime when called before the jury.

The other men looked upon as important witnesses by investigators who will also be asked to testify this week are Captain Ben Clarke, Bertillon chief of the Canton police department and Detective Floyd Streitenberger, also of the local detective force.

Clarke is said to have made an investigation surrounding the Mellett home immediately after the murder.

Streitenberger is expected to be quizzed concerning the statement of Louis Mazer, accused of the Mellett murder, that he was at Streitenberger's home treating a sick dog during the time of the assassination.

Martyrs in a Great War

Progress made in the [illegible] out [illegible] of the [illegible] in th[illegible] last half century of amazing [illegible] Much of this great work [illegible] accomplished [illegible] unobtrusively and [illegible] however that its magnitude [illegible] fully [illegible] the general public. Only [illegible] of the profession and [illegible] is there full realization [illegible] of the wonders that [illegible] for the preservation of health and life.

Diseases once regarded as incurable are now easily cured in consequence of the discoveries made by men and women who devoted years to painstaking research and who in some instances sacrificed their own lives in the undertaking. About two years ago an eminent French scientist died a martyr in his determined and persistent effort to work out remedies for the ills of his fellowmen. He was an expert in the study of radium and the closing years of his life were devoted to the task of striving to develop the curative powers of that element. Steadily and inescapably the flesh of this great benefactor was seared by the agency that he sought to convert into a formidable foe of death for others until finally it struck a vital spot and brought his labors to a tragic but glorious close. While this man's sacrifice was equal in grandeur to the most notable recorded in history and will yield benefits to the human race surpassing many of the transcendent deeds of military heroes his fame is not proportionately great because the account of his career does not carry the note of dash and romance found in stories of the battlefield. Such is the fate of nearly all heroes of peace time and there are many of these entitled to undying honor and homage.

Now we are told that important discoveries in the war against cancer are near. This dread ailment is one of the few that have baffled medical and health experts in their many years of research. For the first time in history it is reported cancer has been communicated from one human being to another seemingly indicating that it is a germ disease. If this belief is eventually proved a long step will have been taken toward the long sought goal—a cure for this deadly and insidious disease.

The prospects of this important discovery are the result of a French medical student having become innoculated through the accidental overturning of a syringe containing fluid taken from a cancer patient. The needle stuck in the palm of the student and two years later cancer developed at the infected point finally necessitating amputation of his arm. Thus is another name ready to be added to the long list of the courageous and self-sacrificing warriors engaged in the battle against disease, a name entitled to shine with brightest luster along with the greatest of human benefactors but which unfortunately is not likely to be accorded that distinction.

The cave man procedure that most women object to is the insistence of some husbands that their wives dress and run their house on the expense scale of the cave dwelling era.

Russia is reported to be drifting away from radicalism but it will probably have to do more than drift to keep the objectionable doctrines from maintaining a successful pur[illegible]

Easy To Go Downward

Here is a story from real life that follows an old and familiar theme but because of the warning lesson that it conveys it is worth repeating.

George W. [illegible] for [illegible] in an eastern state is the leading [illegible] He is now under arrest and [illegible] long prison term as an embezzler.

Just $10 borrowed from the bank when Ford was employed was the first step on the downward journey which led him to the ultimate depths according to his own account. He returned this to the cash [illegible] the following payday and it was all done so easily that he was tempted to repeat the transaction later increasing the amount [illegible] slightly. So it went on and on until [illegible] borrowed funds reached $[illegible] more than Ford could return [illegible] He is now in position to make payment by serving five or six of [illegible] state and be relinquishing the [illegible] and freedom of soul [illegible] integrity.

Careers of crime often [illegible] things the same is [illegible] achievement but after th[illegible] the [illegible] ceases. Criminal development [illegible] come swiftly and easily. In fact once a start is made it is usually next to impossible to find a stopping point. Could this fact be vividly stamped on the mind of every American youth to confront his vision in every hour of temptation there would be no such thing as crime waves of great proportions.

The "New Messiah"

[illegible] comparatively few of the American [illegible] Krishnamurti [illegible] the Messiah has [illegible] before [illegible] probably [illegible]

[illegible] Christ [illegible] He had numerous predecessors [illegible] all [illegible] to be false [illegible] were plain fakes [illegible] deluded persons who [illegible] selves to be [illegible] from [illegible] able to [illegible] thousands [illegible] for instance [illegible] a citizen [illegible] and there were hundreds [illegible] in him.

[illegible] Krishnamurti and the [illegible] definitely and solely with the cause of Christianity. He seems to [illegible] a doctrine [illegible] combination of [illegible] creed. He is backed by the International Theosophical society otherwise known as the Theosophists or the [illegible] of the [illegible] All of which is rather mystifying to the average mind [illegible] the personality and manner of speech of Krishnamurti are so striking. But that will draw followers for people judge largely by appearances and Krishnamurti and his associates have managed to surround themselves with an atmosphere which is suggestive of the supernatural.

Krishnamurti deplores the rule of materialism in America and [illegible] us [illegible] for our pursuit and worship of the dollar. Should time and developments show that Krishnamurti is not interested in our dollars and that he makes absolutely no effort to strip his followers up to a point where they will shower him with coin there will be good reason for beginning to believe in his higher spirituality. Money almost invariably is the acid test of a person's religion.

Just why they're called grade crossings we don't know unless it's because so few of the autoists who try to beat the train fail to make the grade.

The Quest for Happiness

Rudolph Valentino traveled far on the pathway of fame during his comparatively brief life and gained practically everything that one of his profession could hope for before death overtook him. Yet one possession that he longed for earnestly was denied him. He treasured the wish of some day becoming the father of children and although twice married this hope was never fulfilled. That the desire to be a father was uppermost in the motion picture star's thoughts and plans is made clear by Rosa Rosanova known as Valentino's screen mother and affectionately referred to by him as Madre Mia. Commenting sadly on the actor's death his screen mother [illegible] Mme. Rosanova says:

"He wanted a wife to make him a home of the quiet simple sort the Italians love. Instead his wives desired only to make him a great star. Their aims clashed and Rudy's heart was sad. I asked him before his last divorce if he was happy. 'Madre mia,' he replied 'how shall I answer you? I am happy but my heart is heavy with regret. I am a success but beyond there is one thing that I dare not speak of.'"

So it was that Valentino discovered as many others of note have likewise learned that money honor and fame do not provide a guarantee of happiness. That is found generally in the opportunities, advantages and life that are available for practically everybody whether rich or poor.

Health resulting from contentment, honesty and proper use of the [illegible] food and with the [illegible] comparatively little. For the [illegible] the most valuable contributions to human welfare constitute the material basis of happiness. The proper use of the [illegible] careers and with a good wife and a family of healthy children [illegible] poor man [illegible] of wealth or high station [illegible]

Neglect Causes Baby's Sore Mouth.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

It is not a bit of wonder that sore mouth is a most prevalent [illegible] It is particularly surprising that [illegible] sore mouth is not [illegible] involved in [illegible] and [illegible]

You know how delicate is the lining membrane of the mouth. The covering of the lips and gums the roof of the mouth and the cheeks is thin and sensitive. When the membrane is reflected upon the tongue it is equally sensitive.

After giving thought to the fragile nature of the lining of the mouth give a little consideration to the things which enter that cavity. Grownups take hard crusts of bread tough meat rough nuts and all sorts of things capable of cutting or bruising this thin membrane. Of course we become so adept in the use of the tongue and the teeth that the morsels of food are kept between the teeth and rarely do any damage to the soft tissue.

With a child gravity seems to center in the mouth. Everything a youngster picks up goes to the mouth. He stuffs into his mouth his toys, the contents of his mother's sewing basket and finding everything else puts his fist or his foot into the yawning cavity.

This practice does no particular harm unless the articles which find their way to the mouth are contaminated. A baby is more sensitive to dirt than he is to damage produced by natural things.

A nursing baby is capable of having a serious inflammation of the mouth. The cause of it is most always either the rubber nipple or the nursing bottle. Nothing will more quickly destroy the comfort and health of the baby than an unclean nipple.

Since I have a baby in mind rather than a grownup I want to [illegible] about the care of the nursing bottle and the rubber nipple. With these as with lots of other things which we have to deal it is too common a belief that uncleanliness is a visible thing. As a matter of fact there may be serious contamination [illegible] and [illegible] but when the article in question appears to the eye to be perfectly clean. You may clean a lamp chimney so it shines and yet there may be left upon it millions of germs capable of producing [illegible]

When you are dealing with nursing bottles, rubber nipples, milk, food or anything else where there is a doubt regarding contamination all danger can be removed by boiling the article. Everything used in preparing food for the baby should be boiled. All the utensils necessary for the preparation of the food should be boiled before they are used. [illegible] most possible [illegible] should be used regarding the rubber nipples because the material from which they are manufactured make it easier for them to become seriously contaminated.

Whenever a baby develops a sore mouth it is almost proof conclusive that there has been a lack of cleanliness. It is quite likely that the uncleanliness is of the nursing bottle or of the nipple.

Longer Hours in Europe

(New York Times)

The new [illegible] hours of labor in [illegible] on a restricted consumption [illegible] the [illegible] the steps [illegible] the Bre[illegible] Heavy adverse trade balances [illegible] declining exchange. [illegible] is possible to [illegible] tighten the [illegible] With [illegible] practice [illegible] after [illegible] and then [illegible] to the [illegible] before the war Great Britain's annual excess of imports over exports averaged [illegible] £[illegible] In 192[illegible] the adverse trade balance was nearly £[illegible] In 1924 it was £[illegible] In 1925 it was £[illegible] These were the years in which the pound sterling has climbed back to stability and parity. France on the other hand has retained a favorable trade balance yet her currency has been declining. Poland some time ago adopted a drastic program of import restriction but it did not save the zloty.

If Italy is to benefit from the enhanced production that may follow upon the authorized increase of the legal working day by one hour it will be reflected even more than in the exchanges. The chief thing Europe needs is greater labor efficiency in order to restore the wealth destroyed in the war. [illegible] not to have [illegible] foundation. At the same time that Mussolini was decreeing a longer working day the British House of Commons was reestablishing the eight hour day in the mines. In Germany the eight hour day has for a long time and on a large scale been in abeyance through agreements between employers and workers. In Russia the legal eight hour day is [illegible] In the heavy industries the normal working day is nearer ten hours and even for child labor the restrictions have been seriously modified. Thus under all [illegible] the [illegible] principle has been [illegible] that an impoverished continent must raise production to fill the economic void.

For Italy the new program comes near to reproducing war conditions. The nation is called upon to work harder and to consume less. Its [illegible] consumption is cut down. Even war bread is in the offing. The minister of national economy has been charged with the [illegible] of a law reducing the wheat content of flour to eighty-five per cent. Whether a people can be brought to accept war sacrifices in peace times remains to be seen. The strain on the Fascist government machine will be great. It has concentrated in its own hands the direction of capital and labor. It must now watch over the details of production and consumption and adjust controversies as they arise for in [illegible] strikes and lockouts are forbidden. Mussolini would thus be the [illegible] of a nation on a war footing in peace time.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If some good fairy should appear as they did in the old fairy tales and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose?

Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares.

Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away.

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy, and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you this priceless gift of better health. —Adv.

Excessive thinness should not be confused with attractive and perfectly healthy slenderness. Columbus, O., Aug. 30—Cool weather up to July 1 stimulated butter production and caused a decrease in ice cream consumption compared with the first six months of 1925, according to a statement issued by the Ohio Dairy Products Association. $100,000 Prospect Fire Equipment Corporation Doing $300,000 Business

ALTHOUGH few persons have knowledge of the fact, the Prospect Fire Engine Co. of Prospect, [illegible] operation for 15 years, manufactures some of the best fire fighting equipment in the United States.

The company has in its employ [illegible] persons, each skilled in a particular line of work. It has recently been incorporated for $100,000 and has the yearly production of between $250,000 and $300,000.

Last year the company produced and sold about 60 of the fire fighting machines to cities, towns and villages in all parts of the United States. A few of the engines were sold to fire companies in [illegible] Canada. The company also produced several hundred hand chemical wagons.

The Prospect company manufactures everything on the engines with the exception of the [illegible] motor chassis and the "extras" which includes axes, lights and sirens and other small items.

When a customer specifies an order on the make of the chassis desired for the fire engine the company delivers to the customer the Deluxe [illegible] Fire Engine or a special built fire engine.

Nearly all of the engines turned out by the Prospect plant are constructed according to orders of the purchaser. Number of ladders, chemical tanks and length of hose is optional.

The plant also turns out hook and ladder outfits, chief cars and hand chemical wagons. All of the products are given 13 coats of paint and are decorated in true fire machinery style.

Tanks on the fire engines contain [illegible] gallons of chemical besides the [illegible]. The hose which connects with the tanks throws a stream 130 feet in length. A record of drawing water from a stream 28 feet [illegible] was set by one of the Prospect [illegible] at Warren, O. [illegible]

The company has [illegible] its staff [illegible] Mr. Woltring, general manager, the plant has secured several patents. [illegible]

The [illegible] The Deluxe [illegible] invented by Mr. Woltring. [illegible]

[illegible] Mr. Woltring is also given credit [illegible] chemical [illegible]

[illegible] submerged in soda water keeping acid at highest efficiency and also prevents corrosion of the tank. It has been declared by many experts as the most simple and satisfactory receptacle ever used.

The engine plant was first started by Mr. Woltring in [illegible] when a single room was the entire factory. Today the factory consists of several store rooms, machine, blacksmith, paint and wood working shops and the erecting room.

At first the only product manufactured was the hand chemical wagon but the business was revolutionized as the automobile appeared. The company was incorporated in 1911 for $10,000.

Officers of the company include [illegible], president; A. L. Woltring, vice president; H. E. Thomas, secretary; G. W. Webster, treasurer, and S. J. Woltring, general manager. William Kerr of Marion is in charge of the paint department.

Championship Tournament Game Called in Sixth Inning

Marion and Bucyrus Battle to 4 to 4 Tie in Six Long Innings Before Game Ended

Bucyrus Downs Crestline 8 to 3 in First Game; Athletics Give Findlay Merchants a Warm Reception, 14 to 2, Marion-Bucyrus Game Called at 6 O'Clock

BY PAT MURPHY

TWO seven inning games to a decision and a six inning tie game was the tournament menu served to a crowd which packed the stands at Lincoln Park Sunday afternoon. In the first game of the scheduled three game tournament Bucyrus defeated Crestline by a score of 8 to 3. In the second, Marion Athletics took Findlay Merchants over the bumps to the tune of 14 to 2. The rubber game between Marion and Bucyrus was called at the end of six hectic innings, at 6 o'clock, with the score a tie at 4-4.

First Game

The first game was [illegible] affair for five innings, with [illegible] Bucyrus and [illegible] in a pitchers battle. But in the [illegible] inning, Bucyrus [illegible] three runs [illegible]. However to throw a [illegible] the Athletics and to [illegible] what was to come in the [illegible] the Bucktown boys went out in the sixth and got three more. Bruce Shirrod, with two doubles [illegible] star for the winners. Smith was not going to take any chances [illegible] mates turning him [illegible] went out and got a double [illegible] and scored two runs out of three times at bat. In the [illegible] inning Crestline shifted her lineup around trying to hold Bucyrus down. [illegible] went over from third to the box but the railroaders had their batting clothes on and [illegible] as they had been taking to Marshall.

Second Game

The second game was one of those cruel affairs which the Athletics are likely to put on at any time. After putting out the Merchants in one two three order in the first, Rowan first up for Marion drew a walk, was sacrificed to second by Buckland and scored on Bacon's long [illegible]. Then Glen Price struck out and Cole drove flew to A. [illegible] Findlay's short fielder. Then fans settled back to watch a tight game but in the second hits by Conroy, Brashares and Donaldson followed by a sacrifice fly by Chet Shirrock counted two more runs. In the third Marion scored four more and from then on the game was a runaway. In the sixth after Fresnall had enough M[illegible] and [illegible] tried their hand at serving them up. The Athletics were tired of running bases and wanted to conserve some energy for the [illegible] up game so when the total reached 14 they stopped scoring.

Conroy Stars

The individual star of the game was Joe Conroy. Joe has more than justified Manager Bacon's judgment in shifting him from behind the plate to first base. He fielded first like a [illegible] and had a 1000 batting average. He faced the Findlay pitchers four times. After getting three clean singles the pitcher decided that Joe was [illegible] so sent him to first without an effort on his fourth trip up. To show his friends that he was not a [illegible] to walking Joe promptly stole second. Jealous of Joe the rest of the Marion team went after long hits and when it was all over Rowan and Brashares were credited with home runs, Bacon with a three-bagger and Glen Price with a two base drive.

Findlay threatened in the fifth but after the bases were full a fast double play, Buckland to Brashares to Conroy nipped the rally. There were two other double killings in this game, Piert to Ewing and Donaldson to Bacon to Conroy.

Chet Shirrock pitched [illegible] striking out four Merchants and walking as many. He could have stretched the game considerably had he not "faked" the spitball [illegible]. Fresnall [illegible] and he held a [illegible] to their credit. Fresnall walked [illegible] the few minutes that M[illegible] was [illegible] the mound the Athletics drew [illegible] Chet Shirrock, Don [illegible] and [illegible] were credited with [illegible]. [illegible] with a [illegible]. In the fifth Rowan and Buckland pulled a double steal.

Third Game

The rubber game opened with Main opposing Reese. Main struck out [illegible] and Bruce Shirrod. But Wagner hit to left only to be left stranded when Miller flied to Piert. In Marion's half of the first Rowan and Buckland went out in a hurry. Bacon and Price hit safely but were left when Conroy hit one down the first base line for the final out.

In Bucyrus' second inning [illegible] had his [illegible] dusted by Main and [illegible] sacrifice and Donaldson's error on Haspy's fast roller. They added three more runs in the fourth.

Marion scored two runs in the fourth. Main hit safely but was caught at second. Rowan and Buckland got on through errors on the part of Wagner and Miller and scored on Bacon's long fly to right. In the sixth they added two more. Glen Price walked to open the inning but was forced at second by Bacon. Conroy then flew out. Rex Donaldson came through with a double scoring Bacon and was himself pushed over the plate when Brashares smashed out a two-bagger. Main then struck three times and the clock struck twice as many and the game was called.

Macken Calls 'Em

Umpire Macken was the recipient of much unsought advice from the stands. At times his decisions were rather spotty, but as usual he called them as he [illegible] them. And no one could accuse him of partiality because all four teams seemed to be the goats in the opinion of the sideline umpires.

During the last game a sandstorm made things unpleasant. At times a stiff wind blew over the diamond, hiding the players from the view of the stand. Rain threatened but did not materialize.

"TIE 'EM ON TO STAY!"

New York Asks 'Who'sNext?' as Channel Swimmers Take to Wild Waves Like Ducks

Walsh Wonders If Mrs. Corson Will Get $125,000 Contract Like Trudy and Inquires If We Can Stand Two Such Attractions; Both Have Great Appeal

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Aug. [illegible] Having [illegible] one lady channel swimmer until she [illegible] New York [illegible] this morning [illegible] like the [illegible] who attempted to tell [illegible] Siamese twin she was the most beautiful woman in the world. He was trying to make a choice between a carbon copy and the original and it is man can't do that, neither can he reach and [illegible] decision on two lady channel swimmers.

New York has two lady channel swimmers today and is feeling just a little [illegible] that [illegible] under the common impression that Gertrude Ederle, the only lady channel swimmer at that moment, would continue to be the only lady channel swimmer until the end of time.

Twenty four hours later Mrs. Clemington Corson of New York swam the [illegible] between France and England and [illegible] she could give Trudy an excellent [illegible] the [illegible] swim [illegible] channel swimming circles today. Who's next?

[illegible] has departed with all the [illegible] from the [illegible] when [illegible] of Mrs. Corson's successful [illegible] Trudy [illegible] self [illegible] Mr. [illegible].

The [illegible] might not alter [illegible] the effect of [illegible] but it would [illegible] practically [illegible].

On Friday [illegible] only was a woman [illegible] to [illegible] the world. On Saturday she had company. With a rival cut into the [illegible] Trudy [illegible] because she is young and [illegible] but Mrs. Corson is [illegible] and the mother of two small children. That [illegible] human interest angle to me.

Has Great Appeal

Another is the fact that this mother made the attempt almost [illegible] no tugs, no jazz music, no famous trainers and [illegible]. She was followed by a motor boat [illegible] as a [illegible] and a precaution against drowning. And at the finish she was caught into the turn of the tide and swam the last [illegible] into what probably was a [illegible].

It seems to me that such a woman must have great public appeal. Will she go big in vaudeville? Trudy is supposed to have an offer of $125,000 for [illegible] weeks. Will Mrs. Corson get a similar offer? And if so is there room at that price for two lady channel swimmers?

I would seem that one must simply cut down the earnings of the other in various avenues of revenue being opened. Of course Trudy must remain the [illegible] lady swimmer and the [illegible] lady [illegible] But now can we say we won't have a third before we know it? [illegible] Parsell [illegible] known New York girl was in the channel over 20 hours and experts [illegible] she would have conquered it if the pilot [illegible] in the [illegible] it seem possible that Cardella might [illegible] succeed.

Tennis rackets and methods of play have changed a great deal during the last fifty years. In the seventies the blade of the racket was not in a straight line with the handle. It was curved on one side and looked rather like the half of a pear that had been cut from the middle. The object of this was to get a break on the ball. Dress and [illegible] to play in when the players [illegible] in those days. [illegible] break was all that mattered.

Believed to be the oldest in the world, a racket that made more than 170 years ago is now being exhibited in London. It is about six inches longer than the [illegible] of today and only four inches wide at its broadest point.

Eleven years ago Norman Taber ran the mile in 4 minutes 12 [illegible] seconds and this record still remains unbeaten.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

[illegible] upon a time [illegible] Uncle Wiggily was about to hop away from his hollow stump bungalow he saw [illegible] outside the squirrel boy sitting on the front steps looking very sad.

"What's the matter, Johnnie?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Oh, I feel so sorry for my brother," chattered Johnnie.

"Why, what has happened to Billie?" the bunny gentleman wanted to know.

"He had to go to the dentist's to have a tooth pulled," and Johnnie [illegible] "Oh dear!"

"That is very kind of you to have sympathy for your brother, but why cry about it?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I'm not exactly crying for Billie," [illegible]ghed Johnnie. "I'm crying for myself, 'cause I got to have a tooth pulled tomorrow."

"Oh, that's different," said Uncle Wiggily. "But now, to make you and [illegible] both forget about such sad things as pulled teeth, I am going to take you on a picnic to the woods. Come, we'll wait outside the dentist's office until Billie comes out and then we'll have fun."

With that Johnnie's tears dried up and blew away, and when Billie's tooth was pulled (and it didn't hurt him half as much as he thought it would) the bunny uncle took the two little squirrels on a picnic. With them went Jingle and Jangle, two of Uncle Wiggily's little rabbit girls. They found a shady place in the woods near a spring to eat the lunch Nurse Jane had put in a basket for them, but it was a little early yet, so Uncle Wiggily said:

"I will sleep before I eat," and he picked out a mossy green log for his bed.

"Pleasant dreams," chattered Johnnie as Uncle Wiggily was closing his eyes and giving a last twinkle to his pink nose. "Pleasant dreams!"

"Oh, dear! I wish I could have pleasant dreams," croaked a sad voice, and from the rushes at the edge of the spring sprang up a big bull frog.

"Why can't you have pleasant dreams?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Because I am too sad," croaked the frog, and then the animal children noticed that he was all splashed with red, green, blue and yellow paint. "I am an artist," went on the frog. "I [illegible] a picture almost done [illegible] the blue jay bird swooped down and took away my brushes, and now I can't finish my painting. Oh dear!"

And just then Johnnie looked at the rabbit gentleman and chattered: "Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Your tail is just like a brush. Can't you let Mr. Frog take [illegible]"

"Not very well, it is too tightly fastened to me," said the rabbit. "But, Mr. Frog, if you had your partly finished picture here, and your paints, [illegible] would tell me what to do, [illegible] could dip my tail in the colors and [illegible] this way and hop that [illegible] up and [illegible] putting on streaks and [illegible] the picture was done."

"Oh, wonderful!" croaked the frog. [illegible] he brought from the rushes a [illegible] of white birch bark, on which [illegible] a partly finished picture. The frog [illegible] spread out on a log some dabs of [illegible] blue, red, black and yellow [illegible] he had made from the flowers. "Now, Uncle Wiggily," croaked the frog, "please dip your tail in some red paint and hop to left," which the [illegible] did.

Next he dipped his tail in the blue [illegible] and hobbed up and down, [illegible] color on the bark.

"[illegible] that I'm [illegible]?" asked Mr. [illegible], for of course, having [illegible] to the picture, he couldn't see what was done.

"You painted part of a house," said [illegible]. "And now dip your tail in [illegible] and jump up [illegible] and down hard," and while Uncle Wiggily was doing this Jingle and Jangle screamed.

"What [illegible] that time?" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Some of the [illegible] of the [illegible] of the black paint got in [illegible] eyes," croaked the frog, "and he's running away as fast as a roller [illegible]."

And that is [illegible] what happened. The [illegible] seeing Uncle Wiggily's back [illegible] tried to sneak up and nibble the

"Because I'm too sad," said the frog

[illegible] but with the black paint in his eyes [illegible] Uncle Wiggily dusting at the [illegible] of his tail as he flopped up and down, the [illegible] couldn't see, and howling he ran away.

Then Uncle Wiggily dipped his tail in yellow paint and finished the picture, and after the picnic, to which the frog was invited, the funny croaking artist sold the painting for money enough to buy a new brush. So every thing came out all right.

And if the pepper caster doesn't sprinkle salt on the tail of the wild cucumber and make it tame, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the crow.

RAIL STOCKS ASSUME LEAD IN FORWARD MOVE

Professionals Make Another Attempt To Push Prices Downward

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks firm; industrial stocks irregular; domestic bonds steady, foreign bonds irregular; call money 5 per cent, grain firm; copper steady; oil irregular; cotton reactionary; rubber firm; sugar steady; pig iron firm; foreign exchange irregular.

New York, Aug 30—Railroad stocks assumed the lead in the forward movement of prices on the stock exchange today after a period of irregularity in which the professionals made another attempt to push prices downward.

The efforts of the bears in the forenoon period were based principally on the $18,000,000 decrease in the surplus reserves of the New York Clearing House banks, as revealed in the statement issued after the close of yesterday's market.

It was well understood, of course, that withdrawals from the banks and from the call money market of late was in preparation for the September 1 settlements, after which date a flow of the funds back to the banks will be the natural process.

Call money ruled at 5 per cent.

The motor stock, industrial, coppers and oils, were unsettled as the result of liberal selling for the account of the professionals. Hudson Motors, General Motors, steel and other industrial leaders sold from two to four points down in a small volume of trading while specialty stocks reacted in a similar degree.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Tomatoes today were scarce in Marion markets for the first time since the appearance of the homegrown variety several weeks ago. With the change in supply also came a change in price. The same variety which sold Saturday for two pounds for five cents was today selling for five cents a pound in most of the uptown vegetable houses. A few of the dealers increased their quotations to three pounds for 10 cents.

Sweet corn was "sold out" of nearly all of the markets Saturday. Today a very small supply was noted. Most vendors held steady to the prices asked Saturday on the variety. The quotations were mostly at 15 cents a dozen.

Head Lettuce

Head lettuce was found to be selling at 10 cents a head in several of the local houses. Prices last quoted on the vegetable was 30 cents a pound. Leaf lettuce has practically become extinct in the local markets.

Egg plants were selling today at 20 cents for the best grade. Another grade was marked to sell at 10 cents a pound.

Summer squash were noted today. The general price was 10 cents.

Homegrown peas, slowly passing out of the market sold today at 10 cents a pound.

Mangoes, peppers and pimentos were occupying a prominent place on the Marion market and were holding steady at Saturday prices. The former vegetable was selling at five cents a pound. Pimentos and peppers were set at three for 10 cents.

MARION ELKS GO TO CEDAR POINT MEETING

Local Lodge Boosting Judge Charles L. Justice for State Head

Judge Charles L. Justice and Grant Mouser, Jr., left Saturday for Cedar Point, where they will represent Marion Lodge, No. 32, Order of Elks, at the annual meeting of the Ohio State Elks Association, this week.

A delegation of Marion lodgemen will leave today to attend the opening session. Several members of the local lodge also expect to take part in the mammoth parade which will be held at Sandusky, Thursday morning.

Preliminary ritualistic contests are on the calendar for this afternoon's session at Sandusky. Public exercises including addresses and music will be held tonight at Cedar Point.

Excursion Planned

Delegates at the meeting will take part in an excursion to Put-in-Bay Island Tuesday morning. No meetings are scheduled for Tuesday afternoon or night. Sight seeing trips will be held for the ladies at the convention in the afternoon.

The convention will close Thursday afternoon with the election of officers for the ensuing year. Judge Charles Justice of this city has been indorsed by Marion Lodge and will be in the race for state president of the association.

The town councillors of Landau, Bavaria, recently tried to impose a tax of 50 marks a year on all bobbed heads, but the Burgomaster asked his colleagues not to make themselves ridiculous in the eyes of the world, whatever their private opinions might be, and urged with some passion that a woman's hair was her own. As a result, the proposal was defeated—and the women and hairdressers in Bavaria smiled again.

You are looking at history

The hawker of yesterday who cried his wares in the public places is now but vaguely remembered—swallowed up in yesterday's seven thousand years.

Today the news of goods for sale becomes an indelible record of human achievement.

You may take, for instance, the history of transportation in America and read that extraordinary tale of progress in an unbroken series of advertisements in the files of newspapers—advertisements that inform us of each progressive step from the sailings of sloops out of Boston for Philadelphia in the days of Franklin, to the flight of the Air Mail from Mitchel Field to San Francisco in our own day.

You may read the startling story of the revolution in household economy and the emancipation of the American wife and home-builder in the advertisements of the last twenty-five years.

But in today's papers you will find an even more amazing record—the advertisements of radio outfits, automobile equipment, electrical appliances, foodstuffs, clothing, medicines—things which have raised our civilization to a plane higher than the world has ever known. Do you quite realize that in these advertisements you are examining a contemporary contribution to the recorded history of civilization?

It takes more than money to advertise
It takes honesty

J. W. Jacoby, State Realtors' Head, Says Know Ohio Week May Become Annual Event

Indications Are That Observance This Year Will Be Complete Success; Many State Wide Organizations Promise To Contribute Support To Project

Observance of Know Ohio week, feature of a campaign launched by the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards, will undoubtedly become an annual event according to Attorney J. Wilbur Jacoby, president of the state association.

Indications are that the movement will be a complete success, Mr. Jacoby said today.

[illegible] for Know Ohio week will be definitely outlined Wednesday, Sept. 8, at a meeting of the special committee recently appointed for that purpose by Mr. Jacoby. The committee will meet in Columbus, where tentative plans for the observance were made last week.

All state-wide organizations that have had the matter presented to them have promised to contribute every possible means of support to the project. Included in this list are the American Insurance Union and the state organizations of teachers, bankers, farmers, building and loan associations, manufacturers, builders, chambers of commerce and automobile interests. Kiwanis, Rotary and other luncheon clubs and civic societies in general are expected to be aligned with the enterprise when the final details are completed.

Participation of the schools in the observance of the first annual Ohio Week program is under contemplation as one of the outstanding features. The promoters will request the State Department of Education to cooperate by having special exercises conducted in every school room of the state. Governor Donahey has agreed to designate a week for the observance and is expected to announce the dates in the near future.

The American Insurance Union, one of the pioneers in the movement to sell Ohio to Ohioans, is taking an exceptionally active part in the project launched by the Real Estate Boards. It has been agreed to stage an elaborate program in Columbus during the week, sponsored by Governor Donahey and to engage prominent speakers for the occasion. This organization will also print and distribute 100,000 copies of statistics and data regarding Ohio and its resources that has been compiled by committees in charge of the [illegible]
